Google Checkout takes several steps to protect both the Buyer and Seller against fraud.

Both Buyers and Sellers benefit from using Google Checkout, a neutral third party, to monitor and transact the exchange of the money and merchandise. We take your transactions seriously and protect them with the integrity you would expect and demand from a trusted and neutral third party. You can be assured that with Google Checkout you will receive your merchandise before seller is paid. Google Checkout makes sure that the goods you received from the seller are not defective before we release funds to the seller. FAQs & Protection Policy

How to make the payment:

Make the payment via Bank Wire Transfer. A wire transfer can be made from one bank account to another bank account. The transaction is initiated with the bank where you have your account, and the wire transfer is facilitated by your bank so that you may feel confident that your money will arrive safely at the receiving financial institution. Bank wire transfers are often the most expedient method for transferring funds between bank accounts. Click here to learn more about Bank-to-Bank Transfers
